

5 MIND SHIFTS

REQUIRED TO CREATE POSITIVE EARLY LEARNING CLIMATES

To change behavior, appropriate behavior must be taught, modeled, practiced and acknowledged.

Goal is to Change Adult Behavior

by exhibiting positive adult-child interactions

1

- Provide warm, responsive physical contact
- Use a pleasant, calm voice and simple language
- State the behavior you'd like to see, and encourage it
- Listen to the child and encourage them to listen to others
- Greet children by their name
- Acknowledge the child's accomplishments and efforts
- Engage in one-on-one reciprocal interactions, at eye-level
- Follow the child's lead and interests during play time

2 Good Behavior Must Be Taught

just as any other skill is taught and practiced

When a child doesn't know how to walk, we teach them.

When a child doesn't know how to tie their shoes, we teach them.

When a child doesn't know how to read, we teach them.

Be proactive, not reactive to behavior.

Look for the teachable moment and prevent a meltdown by intentionally teaching behavior.

It does not make sense to punish a child for not knowing how to behave if we have not taught them. » GOOD BEHAVIOR IS LEARNED «

3 Understand a Child's Behavior May Be a Reflection of Something Deeper

and reframe your perception of their actions

3

You hurt my feelings.

I need some attention.

I am over stimulated.

I am bored.

I'm sad.

Instead of saying, "She's so clingy," reframe the child's behavior as a response to her environment.

Rephrase: "She might be slow to warm up to new people, especially in a new setting."

Challenging behavior usually has a message.

Children often use challenging behavior when they don't have the social or communication skills they need to engage in more appropriate interactions.

4 Model and Teach Behavior and then practice, practice, practice

8x

Children must model a new skill 8 times before it becomes a habit.

Demonstrate the behavior skills you wish to see:

Self Management

Self Awareness

Social Agility

Empathizing

Resilience

Giving Compliments

Being Helpful

Sharing and Taking Turns

Showing Affection

Responsible Decision-Making

Giving Suggestions

5 Track Behavior to Guide Decision-Making look for patterns and ways to adjust adult behavior accordingly

By tracking behavior, teachers and parents can better identify and prepare and adapt to situations or environments that trigger challenging behavior. Note how many times the behavior occurs in a given period of time and record the answers to the following questions:

What is the behavior?

physical aggression
inconsolable crying
tantrums
defiance

What is the context?

time of day
activity (meal time)
transition (before nap)
around strangers

What is the motivation?

obtain item
obtain attention
avoid activity
avoid sensory

What is your response?

verbal reminder
provide comfort
physical guidance
offer choice
